THE REPUBLICAN LEAGUE.

The New York State League of Republican clubs, organized last month in New York city, will, through the Executive Committee, which meets to-day in Albany, take steps, as recently announced, for permanent organization. The committee is composed of one member from each county, and its chairman is James W. Hawes, of New York. "The result of this meeting," said Mr. Hawes, to a Tribune reporter, just before starting for Albany last night, "will be the formal inauguration of the League. We'll get down to practical work now. We fully realize that we have a great piece of work to perform, but we intend to push our labors until we have the party from Lake Erie to Montauk Point completely and effectively organized."

The Tribune says that "the plan suggested by President Foster in Sunday's Tribune, that the National Anti-Saloon League, the American Protective Tariff Association and the organization which he represents should unite their forces in the matter of forming clubs throughout the country, has been accepted by all three associations, he says, and will be carried out as soon as possible."

Saratoga is represented in the League by two clubs, the Lincoln and the Republican Veteran club. Mr. Pierson was named at the New York meeting as a member of the executive committee for this county. The Veteran Republican club will, we understand, perfect its organization as required by the State League and be enrolled as required by the constitution and by-laws of the League. There is opportunity for much good work to be done in the pending campaign, without interfering at all with the regular party organizations.

A SENSIBLE VIEW.

In the SARATOGIAN interview with the Hon. George West, who is one of the leading manufacturers in this section of the State, Mr. West in a few words presented his views as to the importance of the tariff to the workingmen of this country. In commenting on Mr. West's views, the New York Press remarks:

> Congressman West, of this State, voices the sentiments of a majority of the wage earners of the country when he says: "I am in favor of raising the tariff on certain articles, so as to prohibit importation, protect and stimulate home industry, and thereby prevent too large a surplus." Senator Frye in a recent speech followed Mr. West in this respect and said that he was in favor of so revising the tariff as to prevent the importation of at least a part of the $240,000,000 worth of manufactured goods now annually pouring into our ports. The wage earners of the United States are far more likely to follow a policy of this kind if vigorously advocated by leading statesmen than the policy of free trade mapped out by President Cleveland in his message.

Not only the wage earners, but all classes of citizens are rapidly learning that the tariff, as Mr. West says, is not a question that alone concerns those who are immediately or directly interested in manufactures, but that it is of vital importance to the great body of the people who feed and clothe those who work in manufactories. It touches the agriculturist as well as the grocer and the tailor. It has a good deal to do with the mechanic arts and it even affects the business of those who supply articles of luxury, such as pianos, organs, and a thousand other things which the American wage-earner claims the right to enjoy, but which are unknown to the laborers in other lands.

THE Troy Times goes so far as to say that Hill's message is humprous in the mock dignity with which its author charges that the Legislature has failed to have an enumeration of the population of the State. The Utica Herald declares that every time the Governor attempts to argue the census question he "indicts himself," and the Albany Express regards his tirade on the subject as "an attempt to bulldoze the Legislature." The longer the Governor occupies his office the more thoroughly hidebound does he become as a partisan.

ANDREW B. HUMPHREY yesterday was chosen secretary of the National League of Republican Clubs, of which James P. Foster is president. Mr. Humphrey lives in this city. He is about 40 years of age and is at present the corresponding secretary of the [illegible]

REPUDIATING MILLS.

Congressman Mills, of Texas, is a ranting free trader, and as such has been named by President Cleveland's speaker, Mr. Carlisle, as chairman of the ways and means committee. But it appears that Mr. Mills is not indorsed by his party. A St. Louis dispatch states that C. J. Burbank, representing large wool interests in Texas, is on his way to Washington to protest against the reduction of the tariff. We quote from the dispatch:

> He says that President Cleveland's message means the practical destruction of sheep husbandry, and though he and the residents of several counties are Democrats, they are also protectionists, and they expect and will get the assistance of Representative Crain and Sayres, and he hopes others. He repudiates Mills as not a representative of Texas opinion. He believes that there has been a vast change in opinion in the last two years, and attributes it to the education of the people. The district he represents produces 3,000,000 pounds of wool annually. Western Texas will send a wool delegation to congress soon.

Texas is not alone among Southern States in protesting against the reduction of the tariff.

GOV. HILL'S sins of omission touching his message are only a little less glaring than those of President Cleveland. It was smart enough, perhaps, for him to seek to cover his rear by making his message "the briefest on record," but why should he still occupy so much space in abusing the Senate and find no room to say anything about the temperance question? If he really intends to thwart any restrictive legislation that may be passed, why did he not say so? If he is in favor of Prohibition why did he not say so? If he favors free rum, why did he not say so? If he is opposed to the legislature touching this great subject why did he not say so? Again, he might have said something about the canals, but he was silent. He might have given his views on the subject of the civil service, but he did not. Is this courage, or statesmanship? Is it what might be called a really clever political stroke?

Joel Chandler Harris is associated with Henry Grady in the editorship of the Atlanta Constitution. He comes from the aristocratic classes of Southern society. — New York Graphic.

He does, indeed. Harris was a little, red-headed, freckle-faced, printer boy, who worked his way up from "the case" to the position of best dialect humorist in the country. He is a Sir Knight of the fourth estate.

A GOOD deal of indignation is excited by the appointment of David T. Easton as county judge, Tioga county, in place of Judge Parker elected to the supreme court bench in the sixth Judical district. He is spoken of as a man totally unfit to hold the office, but he has been a valuable henchman for David B. Hill.

SENATOR FASSETT is sick at Old Point Comfort, Va., and Speaker Cole has gone home tired out. Before he went, however, he told Mr. Husted that he should make him premier of the House by naming him as chairman of the committee on ways and means.

THE Rochester Democrat and Chronicle regards the State rights speeches made at the Harlem Club last week as the interpretation of Lamar's appointment to the U. S. Supreme court bench.

THE introduction of a bill to do away with the fees of the health officer in the port of New York will totally destroy the interest of Gov. Hill in his fight against Tom Platt.

SENATOR EVARTS assures ex-Senator Arkell in a letter that the charge that he is going to vote for a report favorably upon Lamar's appointment, is unfounded.

AMONG THE POLITICIANS.

AN EX-EDITOR OF this city says that when Gen. Grant was here twelve years ago a conversation arose in the Lindell Hotel among several newspaper men and others regarding the probability of Democratic control in all the departments of the national government. After various opinions had been expressed by those present, Gen. Grant, who, as usual, had been an attentive listener, quietly said: "Whenever the Democratic party comes near to complete control of the country it will break its back across the Allegheny Mountains on the tariff question."—St. Louis dispatch to the Chicago News.

SPEAKING OF JAMES RUSSELL LOWELL, and the impossibility of his ever being elected to a state or a national office, the Boston Herald attributes such impossibility to the fact that our people are "so strongly wedded to what may be termed regularity in thought and mediocrity in ability." The Herald gives its own case away. It is wedded to that "mediocrity in ability" which now occupies the White House to an alarming extent.—Hartford Post.

SENATOR QUAY SAYS that he does not like the Washington climate. "In a single day," he says, "they have every kind of weather that you could expect from July to January, and that is murderous to a man whose lungs are not made to stand everything."

DEMOCRATIC MAJORITY IN Forty-eighth Congress, 83, Democratic majority in Forty-ninth Congress, 43. Democratic majority in Fiftieth Congress, 16. At the same rate of shrinkage, what will the Democratic majority be in the Fifty-first Congress?—Philadelphia Press.

THE VEDDER LIQUOR tax bill has already been reintroduced, framed to meet [illegible]

His dress is almost shabby, and with his hair hanging about his shoulders, he presents a peculiar appearance as he walks about the streets of the French capital. He does a little literary work now and then, but writes with no regularity.

Mr Froude's book on the West Indies sets forth, in vivid colors, the tendency of negro Home Rule towards a gradual decay of civilization throughout the island. It is his conviction that the experiment of emancipation is preparing for the not distant future a social and political problem of the greatest importance, to be dealt with, not by Great Britian only, but by the United States, which cannot look with unconcern upon the development of a whole system of "Haytis" within so short a distance of the Southern coasts of the Union.

PRESS PULSATIONS.

A Disgraceful Appointment.

A vacancy has just occurred in the office of county judge of Tioga county, by reason of the election of the Hon Charles E. Parker, late Republican incumbent, to the Supreme court bench. The governor has made haste to fill this vacancy immediately, and in advance of the Senate, by appointing on the last day of the old year one David T. Easton, of Oswego, to the place. It is certain, from what we have learned of this individual, that his name would be promptly rejected by the senate if it had the opportunity to act upon it. We are in possession of affidavits from several of the most respectable citizens of Tioga county, to the effect that the habits of this person, as revealed on several occasions, disqualify him for the position in which he has been placed by the governor. These affidavits give specific instances of gross misconduct. On the 20th of October, 1880, the Oswego Times published an account of occurrences in Binghamton in which Easton was involved, which publication is substantiated by the affidavits of two reputable citizens, and which are eminently discreditable to said Easton. The affidavits of five other gentlemen detail the most disgraceful conduct on the part of Easton, on the occasion of an address by the late Hon. Emory A. Storrs, on the night of October 25, 1882, at a meeting held at the Wilson Opera House, in the village of Owego. These affidavits state that Easton "frequently and almost continuously, disgracefully and disgustingly disturbed said meeting by the use of loud, profane, vulgar and obscene language." From other information received, it is evident that Easton is not a fit man to entrust with judicial functions, and it is represented, upon good authority, that the people of Tioga county consider his appointment an outrage and insult to them.

That the appointment is purely a partisan and personal one may readily be inferred. Easton has been president of the school board of Owego, chairman of the Democratic committee and Democratic elector, and, since Governor Hill's accession to office, has been his zealous henchman in Tioga county.—Rochester Democrat and Chronicle.

He Owned the Earth.

It was lately said of a self-sufficient reformer in words that many persons might well lay to heart:

> And so every day he gave the Almighty
> Advice which he deemed of great worth;
> And his wife took in sewing
> To keep things a-going
> While he superintended the earth.
> —The Churchman.

A Stump Speech in the Message.

Mr. Hill's conception of the office of Governor of New York is not a lofty one. If it were it clearly would be impossible for him to insert Democratic stump speeches in his State papers.—N. Y. Tribune.

CHAMBERLAIN'S OPPORTUNITY.

The Toronto Globe Furnishes the Birmingham Statesman with Points.

TORONTO, Jan. 5.—The Globe, in a leader headed "Mr. Chamberlain Enlightened," says:

"Mr. Chamberlain must have ascertained in Canada that the people are unanimously for a large measure of reciprocity, and that most of the opposition to the latter comes not so much from hostility to continental free trade as from doubt whether it can be obtained on terms that will leave Canada's political institutions undisturbed.

"If the United States congress would adopt the Butterworth bill it is extremely unlikely that even the Tory government of Canada would dare refuse the proffered boon. At present the movement for commercial union on this side of the line is blocked by the natural fear that the other side may make no practical response. The government at Washington may be similarly doubtful of the Canadian meaning. With his knowledge of the state of feeling in Canada Mr. Chamberlain is in a position to attempt the truly diplomatic work of bringing to an agreement two parties that desire a settlement, but do not know enough of each other's mind to venture on distinct propositions. Should he actively exert himself to further reciprocity in the largest degree consistent with Canada's status, he will earn the gratitude of this country. Should he succeed he will be justly ranked with the greatest benefactors."

A WOMAN'S INFATUATION.

Sensational Developments Expected in a Will Contest Case.

NEWPORT, R. I., Jan. 5.—Newport is preparing for a sensational trial, which will reveal the skeleton in the closet of a very respectable family, and which in many ways has not its equal in the records of the courts. Some time ago a young lady died who was directly connected with a very respectable family residing on the Island. Her name was Miss Etta Albro, and she had an interest to the extent of several thousand dollars in an estate in Middletown. After her death it immediately became known that she had made a will in favor of a colored man named James Hazard, who belongs to a family of negroes in the Narragansett county of this state. The mother of Miss Albro, at one time a handsome woman, lived in the same house as Hazard. Directly after it became known that Miss Albro had made a will in favor of Hazard an inquiry was made by the coroner into the cause of her death, but nothing was elicited to show foul play. The provision of the will in which she disposed of her property gave it for life to her mother, and then in fee simple to Hazard. Now a fierce contest is to be made over the probating of the will, and there will doubtless be some sensational and heart-rending revelations. Ex-United States Senator Sheffield has been engaged to contest the will.

Wrecked by an Explosion.

DUNKIRK, N. Y., Jan. 5.—The boiler in Burnham's mill, in Cassadaga, a small village twelve miles from here, exploded yesterday afternoon. The explosion was caused by turning the inspirator upon an empty boiler. The mill was leveled to the ground, and a large amount of property in the vicinity was damaged. George Burnham, fireman, was found about three rods from the mill, covered with the debris. He was badly cut and bruised, both legs were broken, and he cannot live. Herman Burnham, proprietor, was badly hurt about the face and body. Walter Whitney, a mill hand, was thrown a long distance and badly hurt, but not fatally injured. A passer-by, Harrison Gleason, was hit on the head by a portion of the boiler and knocked down. He is badly injured. Pieces of the boiler wore sent through the air for hundreds of feet, and, falling, crashed through buildings.

His Body Torn to Pieces.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Jan. 5.—William Fehder was literally torn to pieces in an accident at Avery's plow factory here yesterday. He operated a large steam hammer in the blacksmith's shop. The belting became disarraged, and Fehder climbed upon the machine to fix it. Suddenly the belting slipped to its proper position, and before he could save himself his clothing was caught by the rivets, and he was whirling around the shaft. His legs was torn from his body, and hurled a distance of twenty feet. Then an arm was jerked off, and every time the wheel went round the crunching of the bones could be heard as the body struck against the beam above. It was almost two minutes before the other employes recovered themselves sufficiently to stop the machinery. Death was instantaneous.

Arrested for Murder.

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—John Foley, aged 20, has just been arrested for the murder of Denny Kearney on Christmas day, 1886. The police have been keeping two or three suspected parties in sight ever since the murder, but not till now has sufficient evidence been obtained. J. J. Murphy, a crook, who was one of a gang whom Kearney was with on the night of the murder, has finally been forced by the detectives to admit that he witnessed the murder. He says Foley stabbed Kearney during a quarrel over the division of some stolen goods. Foley, on being shown Murphy's statement, confessed that he killed Kearney, but he claims that it was done in self defense. Murphy is also under arrest.

To Improve the Canals.

ALBANY, Jan. 5.—The sub-committee of the Canal union conferred with Superintendent Shanahan yesterday in reference to the $1,000,000 to be asked from the legislature for the improvement of the canals. The conference was a lengthy one, and the apportionment of the sum fully agreed upon. For the Erie canal $600,000 is asked. Of this sum $350,000 will be used for the the extension of fourteen locks, and $250,000 for the "bottoming out" of the canal. For the improvement of the Champlain canal $200,000 will be appropriated. The remaining $100,000 to be asked for will be divided equally between the Cayuga, Seneca and Black river canals.

THE ROCHESTER EXPLOSION.

Sensational Evidence by a Former Employe of the Vacuum Oil Works.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Jan. 5.—A considerable sensation was created in the coroner's inquest in the Naphtha explosion case last evening by the testimony of A. A. Miller, a former superintendent of the Vacuum Oil works. He described various explosions and leakages which he alleges occurred at the oil works during his stay there, and also testified that a number of sewers drained into the old canal, and that oil had escaped into the canal through them. He said that while he was at the works each of the light oil tanks was provided with a valve by which the oil and sediment could be drawn off into a ditch which flowed into the canal. He also testified that there were valves which could be turned three ways at the works, and that there might have been a connection made by mistake, which would have caused naphtha to flow out into the canal. If it flowed now in the same way it would reach an open ditch along the railroad track.

The Vacuum Oil Company Again.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Jan. 5.—An explosion occurred in No. 3 engine house yesterday afternoon. Part of the flooring was torn up, some furniture wrecked and a fireman named Bice badly hurt about the head. The explosion came apparently from the Platt street tunnel, which is near the engine house. This tunnel was the scene of the great naphtha explosion recently, and much alarm is again created. Public feeling against the oil company is becoming very strong.

Buffalo's Bill's New Departure.

MANCHESTER, Jan. 5.—Col. Cody made a new departure yesterday in his Wild West show by adding to it the realistic scene of a prairie on fire and tornado effects, these latter by means of a powerful wind propeller violent enough within a certain radius to knock down horses and blow over a coach. About 12,000 spectators hailed these novelties and all the old favorites with unstinted applause.

New Coal Fields Discovered.

CARLISLE, Pa., Jan. 5.—Coal has been discovered in the Blue mountains, in a district where none of the mineral was supposed to exist. A vein of semi-bituminous, eight feet thick, has been uncovered in the Cove mountains, at Hartmann's Mills, Rye Township, Perry county. Prospecting parties are now at work all along the ridges.

Glass Workers Will Not Compromise.

PITTSBURG, Jan. 5.—The executive committee of flint glass makers held two sessions yesterday and adjourned without accomplishing a settlement of the lockout. They sent a communication to the workers containing certain "lists" for agreement, but the men refused to consider them, standing firmly on their original position.

Cholera Among the Hogs.

AUBURN, N. Y., Jan. 5.—Near the outskirts of the city hundreds of hogs have been kept and fed on the city garbage. Cholera has broken out in the herd, and the swine are dying in large numbers. Tuesday the garbage carts were loaded with dead hogs, drawing them to the bone yard, upward of 125 having died during the day.
